

A strong European policy to support Small and Medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) and entrepreneurs 2015-2020

Public consultation on the Small Business Act (SBA)

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

Introduction & background

Since its adoption in 2008, the Small Business Act (SBA) has proven its worth as a policy tool in support of the small and medium enterprises (SMEs). Various initiatives have been taken at both EU and national level to improve the environment in which these businesses operate and help them grow.

It is now time to reflect on what can be done in the years that lie ahead to make life easier for SMEs.

The Commission has drafted a consultation document including the on-going measures and the new proposals (see the link below).

This consultation is designed to collect feedback on the new initiatives set out in the consultation document.

Please read it before you complete the questionnaire.

Simplify setting up procedures, which in many EU Countries and especially in Italy are very complicated and make them common to all Member States, also using the internet for the whole procedure. As Association we are favorable to minimize the period of discharge, very important especially in this fertile period of creation of new entrepreneurs: when about 80% will fail, but it will be the second layer of a much more solid business structure in the coming years. The current law for innovative startups that we have in Italy is a good starting point, but at the moment rather useless for startups themselves: a company newly created in the early years of life, invests in technology development and is far from least two to four years from the break-even point (in space even more). Having tax benefits - preferential taxation - is not interesting nor useful. A reduction of labor costs (the real assett SMEs) and contractual flexibility are needed.

Promoting and implemeting a Bank System able to understand the potential of new ideas and new activities and as a consequence willing to invest and help new entrepreneurial activities.

If we want to competitive worldwide we must have a funcional risk financing system. Today there is not, it is highly underfunded and not very efficient. A single American company that has in orbit today thirty satelllites for earth observation raised in venture capital money in three years, approximately $53 million, much of the budget that H2020 has available for this topic. We need to create an European infrastructure to allow innovation to come quickly to market and the only way is to have enough capital injections. Public subsidies, ESA and H2020 calls fail to meet this criterion (not even the SME Instrument).

4 - Promoting market access for SMEs

4.1 How important are the following initiatives in improving access to the EU single market for SMEs?

	Very important	Important	Less important	Not important at all

Helping some 100 less-advanced cluster organizations to develop customised support services for SMEs through twinning schemes with advanced cluster organizations - by 2020*	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>

4.2 Developing an integrated Commission strategy to help SMEs do business outside the EU (to increase the percentage of such firms up to 20% by 2020)*

4.2a How important are the following proposals, which could be included in the Commission's strategy to help SMEs do business outside the EU?

Supporting an international environment that is more conducive to doing business for SMEs by establishing & following up SME dialogues with key EU trade partners*	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>

4.3 Exploring the option of targeting policy measures on mid-range companies (firms with over 249 employees) to help them expand their international business is*

Within the definition of SMEs there are a large number of differences: in terms of problems, capacities, needed resources, etc. In particular the internationalisation process and needs of a micro-sized company are not comparable with that one of a medium-sized company, thus tailored measures are very welcome. Nevertheless it should be avoided to set up a large number of instruments, but it would be preferable to have few and simple instruments with increasing options and budget.

It has to be foreseen the possibility to finance SMEs participation to abroad events, fairs and B2B, in order to improve their relationship with foreign partners.

Supporting EU companies in enlarging their market in third countries. A simplification in the procedures for opening subsidiaries in third countries is needed (at the moment these procedures are quite long-lasting and costly).

Establishing, for instance, cooperating agreement between EU Countries and other Countries could help in order to facilitate these procedures.

If we want to increase the jobs we need to reduce costs for companies, thus allowing higher wages, and we have to make flexible contracts. Flexible hours for a job that points to the achievement of milestones rather than doing eight hours a day, abolition of overtime for high-tech companies and allow companies the management of reward. Keep the best workers in the company is one of the objectives of any business, and it must not be adjusted so as to make it difficult.
